

P1 Life Skills – Getting Ready for School

I think the Life Skills programme is a good initiative to encourage independence and a spirit of self-help in our girls. The tasks assigned are age-appropriate, so it also builds confidence in the girls as they succeed in the tasks. The girls are really motivated to accomplish the tasks, and it is good for their morale.

.For the P1s, the girls learnt how to remove and flip their pinafore, fold their uniforms, put on the school belt, pack their school bags and pencil cases, tie their shoelaces and wear their socks.

Overall, it was very well planned. I love that the parents were given some time to get to know each other and make new friends before the formal programme in the classroom began. I think it will encourage the parents to volunteer again in the future.

It was also good that we were given videos as a preview, so that we knew what we needed to do. There was sufficient time to do the activities in class, and the parents were glad to be able to see our daughters in action in class. We felt proud to be a role model for the girls in learning these life skills, and that we are able to contribute to their memories of school life!
