

Children's Day 2018 - Games

I helped out with games at the Children's Day Celebrations for the second time this year. This time, it was nice to experience it with fellow mums from my daughter's class, P2 Violet.

We decided on a Lego-themed game stall called Lego Mania. We had 2 games at the stall, Lego Build, where the girl would have to replicate a Lego model within a certain time-frame to win 2 stamps. She would have to make sure that every detail was exactly the same as the original model. If she completed it but didn't manage to do it within the stipulated time, she received 1 stamp.

Our second game was called Rescue Friends. We attached Lego FRIENDS dolls to parachutes and the girls had to glide these into Lego pits to win 2 stamps. If they didn't manage to reach the pit but landed within a marked area, the girl earned 1 stamp.

On the day itself, we were joined by 2 other parent volunteers from P1 Lily. The parents ourselves had a lot of fun trying out the games to see if it would be easy for the girls to win their stamps.

As the celebrations began, the Indoor Sports Hall started to fill with excited girls, and our stall was soon swamped with Lego enthusiasts. Some of them turned out to be true Lego experts, exceeding our expectations by completing their task way before the time was up.

On the whole, it was a wonderful, fun-filled day. As a PV, it is so rewarding to participate in events where we get a chance to witness our girls enjoying themselves to the fullest, reveling in the spirit of camaraderie that IJ girls are well-noted for. As usual, the Central Parent Council outdid themselves with the organization of this celebration which I'm sure the girls look forward to every year.
